Thailand's Industry 4.0

In 2017, Thailand launched its national development strategy of 20 years- "Thailand's 4.0". It has entered the full range of high-value-added industries. As a result, ten major target industries have been identified as the new engines for Thailand's economic development. Among them, there are not only five original predominant industries in Thailand including a new generation of automobile manufacturing, smart electronics, high-end tourism and medical tourism, agriculture and biotechnology, food deep processing, but also five promising industries including industrial robots, aviation and logistics, bioenergy, biochemical, digital economy and medical center. China, with its investment at high speed into Thailand, has become Thailand's second largest source of foreign investment, and will provide the necessary funds, technology, knowledge and experience for Thai's industrial upgrading.
